Website Re-Design: Next Steps

Julia Purza

The following are a list of recommendations for further improvements of the WRSPC website. These can be acted on or not, but they may improve the overall aesthetic and functionality of the website for future users.

1. Fix search engine glitch / error

2. Create a blog post or set of blog posts outlining a support plan for children (link to Youth Resources) and / or for adults (link to All Ages / Adult Resources)

   ○ For example: Where do I start? What do I do?

3. Top right menu (Contact | Blog | Events) needs to be more responsive on mobile devices – contact web master as this involves coding

4. Make home page community photo more responsive on mobile phones (resize or do not show on mobile version of website at all)

5. Make home page menu items look unclickable (Need Help?, Supporting Others, Coping with Suicide Loss...) - contact web master as this involves coding

   ○ When hovering over, it looks like they are clickable because of the cursor pointer, but they are not

   ○ We do not want users thinking they are clickable, but that there is a glitch

6. Try to keep Why...? Group information up to date – let users know when the next group is running on the page

7. Make home page menu icon turn navy blue (#1457A6) and remove underline when hovering over

   ○ Home page icon should be consistent with the search icon

- ○ Home page icon should also be consistent with clickable pages - clickable pages turn navy blue (#1457A6) when hovering over, whereas unclickable pages do not turn blue and have the underline

WRSPC's website font is Nunito Sans. This can be WRSPC's primary font when creating content for the website or any other content (e.g., brochures, documents). If this font is not available in certain programs, the secondary font can be Arial as it is a universal and easily accessible font.
